

SACO GROUPAIR AMSTERDAM

Located at Schiphol at the apron - for the sake of even faster and more efficient onward transportation of goods, SACO GROUPAIR Amsterdam became one of the preferred neutral wholesalers in airfreight in Europe.

The Schiphol area is known as a transportation hub centrally situated in Western Europe, where supplies of goods from all over the world are gathered together before being sent on again. The innovative logistics development and favorable customs and taxation procedure makes the region particularly appealing as a base for many European distribution centers especially with the proximity of the Port of Rotterdam. The major part of all cargo handled at Schiphol is transferring-cargo, not destined for the Dutch market but for many destinations beyond.

Groupair Amsterdam was founded in 1991. The merge with SACO Shipping in 2012 resulted in the sequence of the name SACO GROUPAIR. SACO GROUPAIR Amsterdam has been recognized as the consolidator to Australasia and South Africa. Our global partners are wholesale airfreight consolidators and neutral space brokers, specialized to provide value added services and solutions for all logistical issues in a more innovative manner, creating worldwide connections. This enables us to offer a unique product: an exclusive network of like-minded companies, at origin and destinations, ensures a synergy of services at both ends of the shipping process.

One of SACO GROUPAIR Amsterdam strengths is the large number of destinations it serves, made possible by the excellent network of neutral forwarders from the Air Cargo Group.

Our neutrality encourages national and international freight forwarders to specifically choose for SACO GROUPAIR. Our lifeline is neutrality there is no way that we will deny our customers. In this respect the cooperation with SSC Rotterdam is a remarkable replenishment to our mutual network and services. With a full coverage of the Dutch ports and beyond, we have been strengthened our platform and broadening our outreach to our reciprocal interest. We can only expand and thrive our business insofar as the surrounding community feels involved and affiliated with our services and involvement.

Another company strength to be deemed is the diversity of our team. A mixture of young and less young, starters and well-experienced, conservative and progressive, motivated, involved and well trained people is one of the keys of our success. The diverse talent that every employee brings to the business is the reason of being distinguished.

We identify ourselves as airfreight architects. Continually innovating, reviewing and developing our services and knowledge aimed on creating and offering logical solutions in logistics.

‘Airfreight? It is in our DNA’

DIE SACO MITARBEITER

Name: Felix von Wedel

Position: Supervisor Far East Hamburg

With SACO since: 11 / 1999

How did I get to work for SACO and what motivates me in my daily duties in the SACO team:

I used to be a customer of SACO and had a good relationship with the SACO-people, at some point I thought to myself that I would like to work in SACO's Far East department. Only a week later I was sitting across from my current boss Michael Kreutz and our boss Andrea Briks and we quickly agreed.

I thought that I had made a top deal. After I started at SACO, I knew why I was so well paid. At the beginning it was really hard, 7-19 clock was normal and even on weekends you gladly have taken work home with you

There was not even the now usual IT support, there was no lot numbers, and electronic booking and loading confirmations were still in the future at times. It was basically everything communicates by phone. On Fridays, it was always from noon beer or champagne for the girls. Ah the good old days on the Norderwerft was really nice!

It was particularly nice and is the familiar and friendly relationship with colleagues, I have mediated my brother in law to PCH, who is now married to a colleague of SACO, and my sister in law also works at SACO.

I think that shows how much I trust this company and our owners Andrea Briks and Harald Pahl, they give us every opportunity to grow with our tasks.

What have I experienced in my time with SACO:

Starting (on one I had before the entire staff make a belly dance, and go with my gut that very well) with many great Christmas – or summer - and anniversary parties and it goes on with many trips to the Far East and Europe, on which I have experienced a lot. I will never forget is the first visit of our Japanese agents in Hamburg, I was still very young and terribly excited, and was able to spend the whole day with my boss and the agent, in the evening it was nice to eat and when the waitress asked us if we wanted to have large or small scoops of ice cream, I asked our agent "how do you like your balls - small or big? ".

Well luckily my English has improved a bit in the past 15 years and today I would ask the question slightly different.

What spontaneously comes to mind when I think of SACO:

SACO and its success story for me are something very special, I still remember the early days on the Norderwerft and I see every day as we grow a little bit. The many different characters in SACO are always for something special and I think we are still different than many other companies. For me SACO is not just a job, but a big part of my life.

What I wish for the future:

I hope that is going on with SACO and me for a long time and I still will achieve some more.
